New Horizons Behavioral Health Wellness Services provide an array of services related to promoting mental health wellness and substance abuse prevention to youth, families and other community stakeholders. Services are provided in agencies, schools and community locations with an emphasis on building both individual and community capacity and utilizing environmental strategies to prevent substance abuse and mental health issues. Services include:

- presentations for youth, parents, professionals and community groups
- consultation to design, develop and implement substance abuse prevention and mental health promotion activities
- evidence-based programming for youth and families
- facilitating Youth Mental Health Aid trainings and suicide prevention initiatives
- tobacco merchant identification and education, and community education about tobacco products
- professional development training and consultation on substance abuse, mental health, co-occurring disorders, and cultural competency using the Strategic Prevention Framework
- facilitating the Prevention Alliance of Greater Prince William and fostering community engagement
