

Prince William County Demographic Fact Sheet

Fourth Quarter 2009

Beverly Mill

December 15, 2009

OVERVIEW

Prince William County is located in Northern Virginia, approximately 35 miles southwest of Washington, D.C. It is bounded on the north by Fairfax and Loudoun Counties, on the east by the Potomac River (Maryland), on the south by Stafford County and on the west by Fauquier County.

Prince William County encompasses a total area of 348 square miles (222,615 acres) and a total land area of 338 square miles. Prince William County includes within its boundaries the independent cities of Manassas and Manassas Park. The combined area of Prince William County and the independent cities is 360 square miles (230,594 acres). Federal land accounts for approximately 41,600 acres or 18.7% of the total area and includes Quantico Marine Corps Base, Manassas National Battlefield Park, Prince William Forest Park, Occoquan Bay National Wildlife Refuge and Featherstone National Wildlife Refuge. Prince William County includes four incorporated towns and fourteen census designated places (CDPs), that is, unincorporated population centers designated by the U.S. Census Bureau for data collection purposes.

POPULATION

The current estimated population of Prince William County is 395,485 (as of December 15, 2009) which is approximately 1,167 persons per square mile of land area, compared to 831 in 2000.

According to Census 2000, the population of Prince William County was 280,813 persons as of April 1, 2000. Between 1990 and 2000, the population of the County increased by 65,127 persons (30.2%). Even though this represents relatively rapid growth, it is not as fast as in some previous decades. The County population has grown by 114,672 persons (40.8%) since 2000—the average annual growth rate is 4.19% since 2000—but has slowed considerably since 2007. Since 2007, an unprecedented increase in the number of foreclosures has, in all likelihood, added to the number of vacant properties in the County, but an exact estimate of the impact this may have on the population count is difficult to ascertain.

Source: Virginia Employment Commission

At-place employment in Prince William County (102,578 in the 2nd Quarter 2009) decreased by -2.2% year-over-year, the second quarter in a row with a year-over decrease; at-place employment has grown by 6.3% since 2004. By comparison, Northern Virginia employment declined by 2.1% in the last year but grew by 5.3% since 2004. Employment in the Commonwealth declined by -3.4% in the last year but grew by 1.8% since 2004. The average weekly wage in Prince William County ($773 in the 2nd Quarter 2009) grew by 0.9% in the last year and 19.1% since 2004. At-place average weekly wages in Northern Virginia grew by 1.5% in the last year and 21.8% since 2004. In Virginia, weekly wages grew by 1.6% in the last year and 20.7% since 2004. The impact of the housing downturn continues to be acutely felt in those industries related to housing. Construction employment, for example, declined in Prince William County by over 6,300 net jobs (-39.8%) between September 2005 and June 2009. Likewise, jobs in finance and insurance and real estate experienced a net loss of over 764 jobs (-20.2%) since their respective peak months of the real estate boom. These losses appear to have bottomed out.

In December 2009, Prince William County had a civilian unemployment rate of 5.5%. This compares to December 2008, when the rate was 4.2%. The Prince William County unemployment rate has historically trended significantly lower than the national rate, largely the result of Prince William County's enviable position as part of the Northern Virginia economy. In December 2009, the national unemployment rate was 10.0%; statewide the unemployment rate was 6.7% in December 2009.
